Linnæan Botanic Garden & Nurseries,

FLUSHING, near New-York.

1831

WM. PRINCE & SONS, Proprietors, announce that the great extensions made in their Establishment, which now covers near 50 Acres, completely filled with the choicest TREES, SHRUBS & PLANTS, enables them to offer the various kinds at the reduced prices stated in their NEW CATALOGUES, which will be sent to any person who may apply for them.—The size and excellence of the Trees exceeds all former periods; and the most scrupulous attention has been devoted to their accuracy, which is invariably an object of their personal attention. To NURSERIES they will allow a liberal discount and convenient credit.—All letters desiring information will be replied to by the first mail. As many persons are agents for different Nurseries, it is requested that orders intended for us be particularly specified. Every Invoice sent has a printed heading and our signature, and such proof of origin must be insisted on, as we take upon ourselves no responsibility unless such an invoice can be produced.

Their Treatise on the VINE, describes 280 kinds of Grapes and their culture.—Their Treatise on HORTICULTURE contains descriptions of a great variety of TREES and PLANTS, and directions for cultivating them;—and their [illegible] full descriptions of above 600 Varieties of PEARS, PLUMS, PEACHES, CHERRIES, APRICOTS, NECTARINES, ALMONDS, &c. [illegible] sons can make their selections, with a knowledge of the qualities.

Dfvo Oct 24/31—

As the present is the season or near it for pruning vines we must beg of you the favor of a few cuttings of each of your sorts except the Queen Grape—to be labelled with such accuracy that it will preclude the possibility of error, & we will thereby be enabled to perpetuate your kinds in our vineyard & to render you the merit so justly due by showing the kinds to amateurs &c—I've have been grossly imposed on by Bloodgood & Co in regard to your vines—I've pd them $5—three years ago for 5 sorts which they sold us
