is your father's health? how rejoiced I was to hear of his re-election — How does Col. Trumbull bear the loss of his sweet spouse? I hear that he is plunged in the deepest grief — Do you recollect little room we called the red room? I want much to get a set of chairs & sofa for it — will you write to me in your next if such things can be had better taste with you than in Boston. My Curtains

So very shabby that I must get others — You must think what happens so in such a fine as George, it is so rare to see any that can be him — he is a perfect prodigy & is the most intere little darling that I ever met with — My friends in unite to me frequently & are all well. I dare to have a hope to say — but I must beg you adieu in expectation my affection & attachment to you
