to N Bend of Albany, but understood his trees had suffered as much as ours at the East, and from the same cause, and was therefore apprehensive they might not answer my purpose. If in your walks you meet Mr Wilson, I wish you would mention to him the circumstance that he may give his men better directions in future for his own sake, and prevent disappointment to purchasers, for a year lost is something in peach trees.

I am in hopes to visit Cambridge tomorrow and will cheerfully pay the amount of the bill by you sent.

Make my very best respects to your amiable wife, and accept the same from your friend
