Dear George

A letter from you arrived on the 19th instant a correspondency one from you which did not meet my wishes. I should however look for one by the first Boston which I believe leaves Rotterdam left N.Y. on the 1st and might therefore be in by this time. I have been very well as usual since I last wrote and am still through the mercy of Jehovah and feel air. The Spring has been very long here and but the whole pleasant though with frequent alternations of heat and cold and planted about ten days. Already we have had a taste of the coming summer and I [illegible] and potatoes and sported a light coat and rainbow parasol on the am now looking [illegible] the legal and perhaps Sentzel and so as to be back here in October to settle my affairs finally in Berlin which I should take leave of with infinite satisfaction. I will make my time as economically as possible and expect much pleasure from it - to my entire profit in the way of health and experience. I wish you were here to make a leg with me. I make pretty [illegible] some good musicale [illegible] Have you seen him? I remember me to him if you should do so. I have nothing of much interest to tell you at the time. Dr Anderson has been spending a week here and has gone to Hamburg to visit the Spriglers. He was looking remarkably well and I was glad to meet him again. We have had many Americans here within the last few weeks, none of whom I had ever heard of before. Mr Hoffman is here and I have seen him at the Ball and called twice upon him at his hotel. He seems very retiring and rather discourages any attempts to cultivate an acquaintance with him. I may see more of him hereafter. The translation has not yet arrived. I dont lament the loss of Mr Wheaton but trust that Mr Say will remain. I wrote to Dr Torrey by the last steamer - not a very good letter I believe but better than none. This morning I rec'd the box of minerals and a small package of books, Silliman's Journal, Schoolcraft's Reports and several pamphlets. These are all acceptable, though I had seen the Journal before. The number you sent is now five months old. The meeting of the geological association does not seem to have been very interesting. Whitney says all the geologists are to be at Lake Superior next summer so that there will probably be but a slim attendance at the New York meeting in September. I observe that Lyons Mason is on the Committee of arrangements for this last. As usual and of course. Lyons must have a finger in every pie that is baked on our side of the Atlantic.
