and we have had much snow and some pleasure as well as skating on the Lakes. Now it is thawing again and slushy beyond expression, & the whole town is in a state of Gorgonzola debacle. I have been over to Bishops House to tea but found a dull evening there [illegible] doing all the talking and allowing no one to have an opinion of his own. State he misjudges somewhat on acquaintance and can be agreeable when he chooses.

I must finish this off now as I shall miss the Lusitania. I hope you have received my letters regularly. Love to all at home at Mount Isabel and at Boston. Good night
