No. 2. The Genealogy of Mr. Robert Morgan Gibbes of New-York. This pedigree goes back to Robert Gibbes, the first emigrant, (more correctly, as I have reason to believe, the son of the first emigrant) to South Carolina. There is no visible connection between this pedigree and that of Sir G. S. Gibbes (no. 3.) If this paper gives a full view of the ancestry of Mr. R. M. Gibbes, as he possesses it, he will be glad to learn that, in return for the favor of four generations added by his means to my ancestry, I can probably add eight to [illegible] Gibbes of Kent, Eng.

The genealogy of Mr. Gibbs of Burke Island, and your own corrected genealogy, I regard as desirable documents.

In reference to your acquaintance, Mr. George A. Gibbs of Chicago, I can only say that the Litchfield Gibbses came from Windsor, Conn. I do not know that any investigations have been made in that quarter. There was a Giles Gibbs at Dorchester, Mass. in 1633.

I have received a letter from Mr. Benton Barnard of Litchfield South Farms, who has probably written to you, which contains all the information I possess either of Gibbses in Lancaster, Mass. or of the Gibbs Association in Boston.

If my brother, with his volumineous papers, were near me, I should like to continue the printing of family notices. As it is, I cannot do it satisfactorily to myself.

On Wednesday, the 20th inst. I forwarded by mail 4 or 5 copies of the Family Notices of W. G. of Lexington. If not received, please to inform me, that I may send others.

Yours, with respect and esteem,

Josiah W. Gibbs.

George Gibbs, Esq.
New-York.
