I have owed her a letter for a confounded long time and will write her the first moment that I feel cousinly.
At present I am as cross as a bear with sore head.
Any body who has prickly heat and writes with a thermometer at 90° is justified in being ugly. I hope you will remain at Newport till I get on.

Always your affte son

George