was immortalized in his "Pencil-worth". It is a grand old place, and although entirely in ruins, enough remains to easily trace its former grandeur. I cannot at all describe the beautiful ruins in a letter, so I will defer the account.
We drove home by the way of Stoneleigh Park, the residence of Lord Leigh, one of the richest nobles in England. We also went all through his magnificent house, he being in London.
The vicinity of Leamington is the most beautiful and interesting in all England.
I must stop writing now as it is time to go to bed. All send their love. Cousin. Ther is not feeling very well at present, so it is likely we will soon visit Ems for the baths.
Good-bye write when you can, also tell Nannie & Laura to write. Love & kisses to all Your affectionate Son
George
