walk for half an hour. Then come back to the hotel for breakfast. At eleven o'clock go down and take a bath. After that come home and take a nap. Then comes dinner, then another nap; then down at to the Kursaal to hear the band play and [redacted] home for supper, and to bed at ten p.m. The above programme only applys to those who are taking the cure. I do not drink the water, or take the baths except when I want to.
Nevertheless, I am enjoying myself exceedingly watching the queer people and curious customs here.
I received a nice letter from Mamma yesterday, also one from Grandma. I feel very lazy to much so to think anymore about anything, so good bye.
Your Aff. Ann George.
