"the Government had 50,000 — I do not fear that
"[illegible] they will
"come tearing into the City and carry every "thing before them. the hope is Genl Anderson has "sufficient force to keep them at bay, but it is fear
"from being certain. It is plain to the wider that
"Ky is yet to be the battle ground, as they must "have Virginia, for some place furnishing more
"for the troops and there is no other but Ky.
"the Government ought to throw a heavy force in here
"or else the first battle will be lost, and Kentucky
"go whirling for a season. I can tell you
"that notwithstanding our vote, the minions dare
"not let Kentucky. Hoping the Govt of all "Nations will support us and bring us victorious
"is my prayer" — and so it is with every Border
State. Had we occupied in force Virginia. No.
Carolina, Tennessee &c would have stood by the Govt. I suppose we are doomed to lose them all but only to recover finally our supremacy by a deep & incorrective bondage and a
