with them.
The buildings are also very handsome.
I visited yesterday the Palace of the Louvre, which contains the largest art collection in France. No figures can convey any idea of the size of this building, it is simply enormous. The guide book says one might walk continually for two hours and a half and not yet be able to visit every room. I spent yesterday morning and this morning in it, and yet have not seen it all. I also saw yesterday the Vendome column, and the Bois de Boulogne (the central Park of Paris). To-day I visited the Place de la Bastille and the Arc de Triomphe. There are so many things to see that I am perfectly bewildered. I will spend about 12 days here, & then make for London. I sail for New York the 21st inst. I am afraid I will not be able to write very regularly now.
