have grown so old it will be difficult to recognise us (no beautiful ruin) no such contradiction - I say, tis well you came, we are all hastening home, & meet you now, to meet no more here.

Your affectionate Aunt

R. G. Channing