My dear Mrs Sutherland,

I thank you very much for your kind, affectionate note. When you are again in New York I hope you will let me know. I should like so much to talk about the past with you; it is several years since I have seen you. I remember how good you were in coming to see me the year after my dear Mother's death and what you then said. You know my aunt Mrs Richard Delafield died ten days ago; Mrs Rufus Delafield is the only one of the sisters in law
