ment, and I think very superior one for martial music. The instrument are all variations of the trumpet, no reminders or subsidy among them. In a clear day you can distinguish an air, half a mile. They are employed in the new invention of blues turned up with green. Do look very well in dress parades, but dirty weather reduces a musician's appearance. You know that we are no longer allowed to wear our summer clothes, another cloth. Bay Parker and Steve are about out, and as I have been writing this always at intervals in several days, perhaps there are repetitions and tautology, but never mind. Palmer and Col Lyon leave this morning, some time with me on a visit and leave left the band when about the regiment goes to the Rhode Island. It is a most excellent band, and as I think I heard say to the Quartermaster stay or perhaps always perfectly unnecessary a musician, the air over their heads. The leader Mr Hamel plays on a brass clarionet, a new instrument
