My dear Frank.

I was more pleased than I can express to receive your letter and that by the amiable Dr. Barry the spirit some time Sunday afternoon last with us. I left you to go on board the boy's Island boat and was disappointed in seeing for Elvira and you still at the Wharf. but I was beaming ill and when we arrived at Newbrighton I got out and drove down to see you here the boat which you did in fine style without believing that nothing was over when the vessel. I was to ill at Elvira from our tarked heart and mind that in the morning I took a carriage and came home went to bed perfectly prostrated and was only up to sit a little when I had the comfort of your letter. you know my child with what pain I parted with you in the morning do not forget that you care when we for all by returning to me sometime if I love to show me your face as I see it in your picture which is a great comfort to me. I tremble at the dangers to which you are exposed but more the moral ones. in every thing shun the first temptation. write me fully all that concerns you. Keep a little diary and think nightly of your mother who watches and waits for you — I am now stronger and able to overlook the moving. We shall be in our new house next Wednesday. Elvira is better. And has
